

From the Editor's Desk

Maharashtra Institute of Medical Education and Research, Pune, India's scientific offering, the MIMER Medical Journal (MMJ) is a multidisciplinary periodical to showcase and share novel research and clinical studies by enthusiastic, translational research-minded medical professionals. The initiative promises high quality manuscript processing, expert peer review by experienced and practicing clinical/non clinical academicians and publishing amongst notable research papers. With publishing of high quality articles, MMJ is in the pursuit of greater readership, higher impact on research and promotion of clinical and biomedical research in the field. The manuscript submission process is non-chargeable, and in turn the review process will be very stringent to accept only the most quality-driven research manuscripts.

MMJ submissions will be monitored by the publisher to avoid plagiarized manuscripts and to aid in the proof reading process. MMJ is expected to be listed by leading indexing systems such as Copernicus, Scopus and PubMed in due course. Occasionally, based on the volume of submissions covering a particular topic, special issues dedicated to the clinical/biomedical topic will be formulated. Articles pertaining to such a topic, if accepted, may be retained till such a dedicated issue is formulated, if agreeable to the author. I look forward to an engaging and scientifically stimulating discourse on all clinical or biomedical topics and hope that this will inspire researchers both young and experienced to pursue higher quality research.

We look forward to valued feedback from our readers and contributors; we aspire to continually uplift the quality of our offering.

Lastly, I extend my heartfelt thanks to the editorial board and all personnel working hard towards the success of this journal. I especially thank our scientific contributors and urge all to continue scientific exploration and to submit their novel and high quality research to MMJ.

Best Regards,

Dr. Shashwat Banerjee
